INDEX TO THE HUNTINGTON LIBRARY QUARTERLY

VOLUME XL, 1976-1977

Abernathy, George R., Jr. Sir Richard Temple and the Stowe Library, 45-58
"American Colonization" address by Frederick Jackson Turner as conceptual origin of his frontier thesis, see Carpenter, Ronald H.
Artaud, Antonin, compared with Charles Lamb, see Brier, Peter A.
Authority as exercised by eloquence or silence in Jonson's Epicoene, see Hallahan, Huston D.

Babham, Christopher, his suit against Richard Gunnell, see Bentley, G. E.
Bentley, G. E. The Salisbury Court Theater and Its Boy Players, 129-149
Billington, Ray A., his "hypothetical time-table" of Turner's frontier thesis, see Carpenter, Ronald H.
Blagrave, William, and his suit against Christopher Babham, see Bentley, G. E.
Book collecting (early history of the Stowe collection), see Abernathy, George R., Jr.
Boy players, companies of in Caroline theater history, see Bentley, G. E.
Brier, Peter A. The Ambulant Mode: Pantomime and Meaning in the Prose of Charles Lamb, 227-246
Brydges, James, earl of Carnarvon, his code letters in the Huntington Stowe collection, see Speck, W. A.
Buckinghamshire magistrates in 1868-1888, see Lubenow, William C.

Campbell, Richard Plantagenet, third duke of Buckingham and Chandos, see Lubenow, William C.
Captain Kidd's execution, see Faller, Lincoln B.
Carpenter, Ronald H. Style in Discourse as an Index of Frederick Jackson Turner's Historical Creativity: Conceptual Antecedents of the Frontier Thesis in His "American Colonization," 269-277
Carver, Larry. The Restoration Poets and Their Father King, 333-351
Charles II as father of his country, see Carver, Larry
Charles V, Great Britain's relations with, see Woods, Robert L., Jr.
Chatter in Jonson's Epicoene, see Hallahan, Huston D.
Clerkships in privy council under James I, qualifications for, see Jensen, J. Vernon
Code letters from James Brydges to Lord Harcourt, see Speck, W. A.
Cope, Esther S. The King's Declaration concerning the Dissolution of the Short Parliament of 1640: An Unsuccessful Attempt at Public Relations, 325-331
Criminals, English treatment of in the eighteenth century, see Faller, Lincoln B.
Curran, Stuart. The View from Versailles: Horace Smith on the Literary Scene of 1822, 357-371

Dating Samson Agonistes, see Low, Anthony
Davidow, Lawrence Lee. Pope's Verse Epistles: Friendship and the Private Sphere of Life, 151-170
Defoe, Daniel, gibing at the prison chaplain, see Faller, Lincoln B.
Drayton, Michael, compared with Spenser in their concept of the hero, see Sims, Dwight J.

Eloquence in Jonson's Epicoene, see Hallahan, Huston D.
Exclusion Crisis of 1678-1681, see Carver, Larry

Faller, Lincoln B. In Contrast to Defoe: The Rev. Paul Lorrain, Historian of Crime, 59-78
Filmer, Sir Robert, and the patriarchal theory of government, see Carver, Larry Friendship as a theme in Pope's verse epistles, see Davidow, Lawrence Lee
Frontier thesis of Frederick Jackson Turner and its origin, see Carpenter, Ronald H.

Grimaldi the younger, Lamb's admiration of, see Brier, Peter A.
Gunnell, Richard, sued by Christopher Babham, see Bentley, G. E.

Hallahan, Huston D. Silence, Eloquence, and Chatter in Jonson's Epicoene, 117-127
Howard, Thomas, earl of Surrey, his influence on Henry VIII and Thomas Wolsey's opposition to it, see Woods, Robert L., Jr.
Hunt, Leigh, letters concerning him from Horace Smith, see Curran, Stuart

Influence exerted under James I by Salisbury, Somerset, and Buckingham as shown by appointments to privy council staff, see Jensen, J. Vernon
Intramuralia, 79-91, 181-196, 279-293, 373-380

Jacobean privy council staff, see Jensen, J. Vernon
James I, clerks during the reign of, see Jensen, J. Vernon
Jensen, J. Vernon. The Staff of the Jacobean Privy Council, 11-44
Jones, W. J. "The Great Gamaliel of the Law": Mr. Attorney Noye, 197-226
Jonson's Epicoene, see Hallahan, Huston D.

Kelton, Arthur, his Commendacion of Welshmen, see Ringler, William A., Jr.
King, John N. Freedom of the Press, Protestant Propaganda, and Protector Somerset, 1-9

Lamb, Charles, Horace Smith's impressions of, see Curran, Stuart; pantomime and meaning in his prose, see Brier, Peter A.
Legal and fiscal policies of England in the 1630's, see Jones, W. J.
Literary patronage under Edward Seymour as Protector, see King, John N.
Lorrain, Paul, see Faller, Lincoln B.
Low, Anthony. Milton's Samson and the Stage, with Implications for Dating the Play, 313-324
Lubenow, William C. Social Recruitment and Social Attitudes: The Buckinghamshire Magistrates, 1868-1888, 247-268

Magistracy in Buckinghamshire ceases to be tied to the local landed order, see Lubenow, William C.
Milton, John, dating of his Samson Agonistes, see Low, Anthony

Neoplatonic inspiration for The Faerie Queene, see Sims, Dwight J.
Newgate executions, see Faller, Lincoln B.
Noye, William, "The Great Gamaliel of the Law," see Jones, W. J.

Pantomime and commedia dell'arte, see Brier, Peter A.
Parliament of 1523, Wolsey's relations with, see Woods, Robert L., Jr.
Patriarchal theory of government, see Carver, Larry
Plutarch, influence of his "chain of being" on Spenser's Christian hierarchy in The Faerie Queene, Book III, see Sims, Dwight J.
Press, freedom of, under Edward Seymour as Protector of the Realm, see King, John N.
Private virtues affirmed in Pope's verse epistles, see Davidow, Lawrence Lee

Protestant propaganda during the reign of Edward VI, see King, John N.
Prynne, William, prosecuted by William Noye, see Jones, W. J.

Ringler, William A., Jr. Arthur Kelton's Contributions to Early British History, 353-356

Samson Agonistes considered as a stage play, with implications for dating, see Low, Anthony
Satire and verse epistles of Pope contrasted, see Davidow, Lawrence Lee
Seymour, Edward, duke of Somerset, see King, John N.
Shelley, Percy Bysshe, Horace Smith's letter from him and one about him, see Curran, Stuart Ship money. associated with William Noye, see Jones, W. J.
Short Parliament of 1640 and its dissolution, see Cope, Esther S.
Sims, Dwight J. Cosmological Structure in The Faerie Queene, Book III, 99-116
Smith, Horace, Shelley's admiration for, see Curran, Stuart
Social change as illustrated in Buckinghamshire magistracy, see Lubenow, William C.
Speck, W. A. The Whig Schism under George I, 171-179
Speech, proper (eloquence) and improper (chatter) in Jonson's Epicoene, see Hallahan, Huston D.
Spenser's Faerie Queene, Book III, see Sims, Dwight J.
Stowe library, Sir Richard Temple and, see Abernathy, George R., Jr.
Succession, "true" versus "legal," see Carver, Larry

Temple, Lady Hester, her traveling library as a part of the Stowe collection, see Abernathy, George R., Jr.
Temple, Sir Richard, and the Stowe library, see Abernathy, George R., Jr.
Theater history, Caroline, see Bentley, G. E.
Townshend, Charles, his dismissal as secretary of state, see Speck, W. A.
Trinity College manuscript of John Milton with outlines for tragedies, see Low, Anthony
Turner, Frederick Jackson, his "American Colonization" address, see Carpenter, Ronald H.
Twickenham as it represents an achievable way of life, see Davidow, Lawrence Lee

Verse epistles of Pope, see Davidow, Lawrence Lee

Walpole, Robert, and the Whig Schism, see Speck, W. A.
Wolsey, Cardinal Thomas, his Parliament of 1523, see Woods, Robert L., Jr.
Woods, Robert L., Jr. Politics and Precedent: Wolsey's Parliament of 1523, 297-312